

LEE COUNTY TO REQUEST MONEY FROM THE STATE

Supervisors Determine to Act To Care For Unemployed

Lee county will make formal application to the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission for $25,000 to be expended for the relief of the needy this year, it was voted at the special meeting of the Board of Supervisors yesterday afternoon. The Judiciary committee presented a resolution recommending that the county request this sum, the board voting to adopt the action with two members, William Avery M. May and John Finn of Marion opposing. Chairman Finch asked for a roll call vote which resulted the same as the aye and nay count. Chairman Finch selected the special committee which will have charge of the expenditure of the relief funds in Lee county, subject to their acceptance and the approval of the appointments by the commission, as follows: David H. Spencer, Dixon; J. C. McKinnon, Amboy; George B. Shaw, Dixon; William Brucker, Franklin Grove and James A. Warren, Paw Paw.

Supervisor Lucien Hemenway, chairman of the Road and Bridge committee called the attention of the board to a proposed change in the resolution covering the construction of the Harmon spur from fuel tax refunded to the county from the state. Superintendent of Highways Fred Leake told the board that a balance of $6,062.02 was due the county from the 1927 gas tax and an additional $5,437.14 was to be received from a refund in the 15-D construction program. He estimated that the cost of constructing two and one-quarter miles of paving from Harmon, one-half mile of which will be 18 feet in width, would amount to $46,637.43 with only about $11,000 available. He stated that it was doubtful whether the Harmon spur work would be started this year under present conditions. Supervisor Henry Gehant attempted to table the resolution to make the highway a state 15-D road by having it laid over to the June meeting but the chair ruled against the motion and a roll call was asked for which resulted in the adoption of the resolution by a vote of 14 to 10. Supervisors Burhenn, Ramsdell, Garrison, Buckley, Miller, Gehant, Anderson, Spangler, Ristetter and Kneisch opposed the action.

Estimate Needs. Chairman Finch in closing the special session of the board until the regular June session, called for an estimate from each township of funds necessary from the $25,000 which will be sought from the state relief commission, which resulted in the following amounts being named:

Alto, $500; Amboy, $2,000; Ashton, $500; Bradford, $200; Brooklyn, $500; China, $500; Dixon, $15,000; East Grove, $750; Hamilton, $200; Marion, $200; Lee, $200; Natchua, $400; Nelson, $500; Palmyra, $350; Reynolds, $300; South Dixon, $500; Sublette, $200; Viola, $100; Willow Creek, $200; Wyoming, $700.

The election expense committee completed their audit and the board passed their report as the closing matter of business at the special session.

New Rule For M. E. Bishops To Retire

Atlantic City, N. J., May 11—(AP)—The General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church today, in a compromise move, enacted legislation providing a new retirement policy for bishops.

The new discipline provides that a bishop shall retire when his 70th birthday precedes the first day of June in the year in which a quadrennial General Conference is held. Under this law twenty-three bishops will be retired in the following age order, seven at 73, seven at 72, four at 71, and five at 70.

T. S. Brock of Atlantic City, who proposed the new regulation, as a substitute for three other retirement policies which the conference had been considering, said that under it "all interests will be conserved."

"It will not compel any bishop to serve after his 73rd birthday," he said, "nor will it compel any to retire before they are 70."

REPUBLICANS OF STATE UNITE TO WIN IN NOVEMBER

Meeting Of State Central Committee Was Most Harmonious

Springfield, Ill., May 11—(AP)—Apparently united after the factional strife of the primary election, Illinois Republican leaders looked forward today to a harmonious state convention a little more than two weeks hence.

There was no indication of internal strife as the G. O. P. State Central Committee met here yesterday and elected a Small-endorsed chairman, ex-Judge Franklin J. Stranksy of Savanna. He received the unanimous vote of 23 of the 25 committeemen. The other two were absent.

This action, Stranksy said, was a tribute to former Gov. Len Small, the Republican nominee for Governor, and indicated that the state's Republicans will be strongly united in the November election.

It was also apparent today that the fall state campaign would train the big guns of oratory on Cook county Democratic leaders and that the state platform, to be adopted at the G. O. P. rally here May 27, would include planks promising relief for the farmer and the small home owner.

To Adopt Platform. Col. Frank L. Smith of Dwight, temporary chairman of the state rally, previously had announced the state Republicans would await platform action by the national convention in June but he told the committeemen yesterday the state planks would be adopted here in May instead.

Stranksy himself gave promise of a forthcoming campaign attack upon Mayor Otto J. Cermack of Chicago for his sponsorship of the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, Probate Judge Henry Horner.

"One of the outstanding issues of the campaign," Chairman Stranksy said, "is the picture of the would-be Tammany Hall in Chicago, which has seized the city government and is now reaching out to control the policies and destinies of Illinois."

Party Of Experience. The Republican campaign, he said, will also raise the issues of taxation and of relief for the farmer and the small home owner and he declared that as the party with experience, the Republicans should be left in power.

Retiring Chairman Doyle also promised harmony in the ranks, declared all primary differences have been forgotten and observed that since the Republican primary vote in Illinois exceeded the Democratic by more than 500,000, the people of Illinois "still have confidence in the Republican party."

Former Gov. Small, who attended the meeting in company of Col. Smith, his campaign manager, was introduced and the committeemen gave him a rising welcome amid loud applause.

Sky Ablaze as U. S. Fleet Flashes Greeting

Giant searchlights of 125 naval craft in the U. S. battle fleet swept the night skies above San Francisco in a spectacular drill celebrating the fleet's return. Beyond the city's business district this remarkable night photo depicts the scene as the shafts of light turned and scintillated like the reflections from a huge diamond. Oakland and Alameda are shown across the bay with the battlements stretched out across the waterfront. Extreme left is San Francisco's famous Ferry building tower at the foot of Market street, the city's great white way.

Asks County Aid To Bury His Baby

Exiquia Echebarria, a former track laborer employed by the Northwestern railroad at Nachusa called the office of Sheriff Fred A. Richardson last evening and asked that official to aid him in the burial of the body of his infant son, who passed away Monday night. The father has been without employment for eight months and is reported to be living in a bunk car at Nachusa. The child was born and died Monday night and the parents being unable to understand English, sent word to members of a Mexican colony at Nelson.

Two of the latter accompanied the grief-stricken father to Dixon last evening to present the conditions to Sheriff Richardson. Supervisor Carl Spangler of Nachusa township was notified and ordered a local mortician to care for the body.

KILLED WOMAN IN FRIENDSHIP FOR HER SPOUSE

Ohio Youth, Implicated By Confession; Takes His Own Life

Wooster, O., May 11—(AP)—The suicide of a 19-year-old youth shortly after he had been implicated in a relative's confession of murder, provided a startling climax early today to an investigation of the slaying of the relative's wife.

The accused youth, Harold Young, fired a shotgun charge into his head just as officers arrived at his home, near here, to arrest him. His death came less than an hour after Herbert Meeker, a Wayne county farmer, named Young as the actual slayer of Meeker's wife.

Sheriff John Stevens of Holmes county said Meeker also implicated himself.

The nude body of Meeker's young wife, Gertrude, was found Monday morning lying in a creek near Millersburg. She had been killed by blows on the head.

Auto Found Wrecked. About a mile away, officers found the husband's automobile with blood on the running board, wrecked against a tree. Search of the Meeker home later uncovered a blood-stained shirt.

With this evidence, Holmes county officers subjected Meeker to questioning, but he denied any knowledge of the killing until early today when he confessed.

Sheriff Stevens said Meeker related that the two men and the woman were riding in Meeker's automobile when Young struck Mrs. Meeker with a tire pump. Subsequent blows killed her, and the two men then, attempting to cover up the crime, sent the automobile hurtling down the road, driverless, to make it appear the woman had been killed in an accident.

Accused Kills Self. Immediately after obtaining the confession, Sheriff Stevens and Sheriff Clark Shearer of Wayne county, went to Young's home to arrest him. They were breaking through a locked door when they heard a shotgun fired, and a moment later found Young's body with a fatal wound in the head.

Meeker was held in the Holmes county jail at Millersburg, pending the filing of charges.

Young and Meeker were close friends and were related by the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Becker, pioneers of that community. He is survived by one brother, Jacob Becker of Illinois; a number of nephews and nieces and a host of friends.

The only motive advanced for the killing of Mrs. Meeker in her husband's alleged confession was that she was "not welcome" at his home Meeker and his wife had been separated several months but she had returned to live with him a few hours before she was slain. Young was alleged to have participated in the killing out of "friendship" for Meeker.

During 1931, 282 manufacturers of all kinds and grades of hosiery in the United States made net shipments totaling $5,541,210 dozen pairs.

DEATH PENALTY FOR SLAYER IS STATE'S DEMAND

Youth Is Placed On Trial For Killing Mattoon Oil Station Man

Charleston, Ill., May 11—(AP)—Joseph William Dennis, 22 years old, of Shelbyville, who was indicted for slaying Virgil Shank, Mattoon filling station attendant on the night of Jan. 24, during a holdup, was placed on trial today in the Coles county Circuit Court before Judge George W. Bristow.

Dennis, his counsel has stated, but will allege that he accidentally discharged his 32 revolver when Swank "made a pass at him" during a hold up of the filling station.

Story Of Killing. Swank and his wife were preparing to close the filling station just inside the northern city limits of Mattoon on Route 25 on Sunday evening, Jan. 24. A man, hatless and coatless, in spite of the cold weather, drove into the station. Mrs. Swank heard the stranger order a quart of oil and saw him step out of his car to observe Swank as he poured it into the crankcase.

She heard a shot and heard her husband say "170", the police headquarters telephone number, and saw him fall to the driveway of the station.

After attempting to identify more than a dozen different suspects, she picked Dennis out in a "showup" of prisoners in the Decatur jail on Feb. 9 and declared that he was the slayer of her husband.

Tried To Kill Officer. Dennis had been arrested in Decatur the night previous after a running gun battle with police officers of that city following a filling station robbery there. A Decatur policeman owes his life, it is said, to the fact that a cartridge failed to explode when Dennis attempted to shoot the policeman at close range.

Dennis' confession to the Mattoon holdup and murder of Swank came after the bullet taken from the slain man's body and Dennis' revolver had been examined by Calvin H. Goddard, of the scientific criminal investigation laboratory of Northwestern University. The famous ballistic expert reported that the bullet that killed Swank had been fired from the revolver that was taken from Dennis when he was arrested in Decatur.

SPRINGFIELD TRIAL. Eight character witnesses were offered by the defense today in the trial of Isaac Landreth for the murder of D. D. Kinne, filling station operator of Bates, who was shot down at his home early in the morning of October 22 last.

Landreth admits he was present when Kinne was shot, but that he had no part in it, nor knowledge that George Chastain, who has already been convicted for the crime, intended using fire arms. Police supported Landreth's contention by testifying that on the first meeting of the two men, Landreth rebuked Chastain, saying "I probably will go to the pen for my part, but why don't you tell the truth?"

AKRON OUTRIDES STORMS: MOORS CAMP KEARNEY

Formed To Make An Unscheduled Stop To Get Fuel Supply

Camp Kearney, Cal., May 11—(AP)—Two members of the ground crew attempting to moor the dirigible Akron were swept into the air by the mooring ropes, lost their grip and fell to their death.

BULLETIN. Camp Kearney, Cal., May 11—(AP)—The world's largest airship, U. S. S. Akron, drifted out of a foggy sky for an unscheduled mooring here at 9:40 A. M. (PST) today, three days out on a transcontinental journey.

OUTRODE ELEMENTS. Los Angeles, May 11—(AP)—Triumphant over discordant elements in west Texas, the giant Navy dirigible Akron sailed smoothly over New Mexico and Arizona and was headed today for San Diego, Calif.

En route to Sunnyvale Calif., for Navy maneuvers, the Akron was welcomed by much improved cruising weather as it sailed into Arizona, and it made up some lost time. More favorable weather awaited it in southern California.

Over Douglas, Ariz. shortly before midnight, Lieut. Commander Charles E. Rosendahl radioed the Arlington naval radio station he expected to moor the 785-foot craft temporarily at Camp Kearney, San Diego, about 8 A. M. P. S. T. today. He gave no further plan, the Western Air Express reported. Rosendahl said flying conditions were good.

Following the Southern Pacific Railroad much of the time, the Akron was reported regularly over New Mexico and Arizona last night through the road's telegraph system.

Beset by high winds, fog and thunderstorms across west Texas, causing backtracking and detours, the Akron passed over El Paso into New Mexico at 6:25 P. M. (PST) still battling winds.

Just before reaching El Paso, the dirigible ran into a severe sand storm, forcing her to turn back for the third time since Monday. She detoured southward and desperately bucking head winds, finally veered into New Mexico.

Rerouting Truck Traffic Planned

A plan to re-route heavy truck traffic through Dixon is being undertaken by the city council and an ordinance will be presented to the commission at its next meeting next week. A petition signed by representatives of churches on Second street between Peoria and Galena avenues was presented to the council last evening requesting such a change and charging that the operation of trucks on that street disturbed the church services.

The council was invited to visit in a body the Dixon public hospital on May 12, which will be observed as National Hospital day, the invitation being also extended to the public of the city.

An ordinance designating the City National and Dixon National banks as city depositories was passed.

The application of Barron & Carson to erect a sign was referred to the Commissioner of Public Health & Safety.

The application of the firm of Sinow & Weinman to operate a junk yard at 114 West River street was granted. Several applications for soft drink licenses were also granted.

ECONOMY PLANS MADE AT WHITE HOUSE CONFAB

A Special Committee Of Senate Talked With President Today

Washington, May 11—(AP)—Congressional leaders agreed today to make a determined effort for final adjournment of Congress on June 10.

The decision was reached at a conference attended by Speaker Garner, Senator Watson, of Indiana, the majority leader, and Rep. Snell, of New York, Republican pilot of the House.

At a bi-partisan White House breakfast with members of the new Senate Economy committee, President Hoover today set underway a new money saving program in the Senate along the same lines as that decided by the House.

The drive specifically is aimed at a goal of saving $300,000,000 or more through reduced appropriations and governmental consolidations.

Many of the items of the original House economy bill were discussed, including the five day week and payless furlough plan for Federal employees. Secretary Mills was appointed spokesman for the group breakfasting with the President, a role he has assumed following all of the series of recent White House parleys.

Asked what had happened, he stated slowly, apparently picking his words with care.

Mills' Statement. "We discussed economy along the lines of seeing how through an economy omnibus bill, reductions in appropriations and authority for governmental consolidations, savings of $300,000,000 or more can be effected for the fiscal year 1933."

Walter M. Newton, one of the President's secretaries, stood beside Mills on the rain-drenched White House portico, as he spoke nodding in affirmation at each phrase.

Others who attended the breakfast conference, which lasted for about two hours, long after coffee had been served, were Chairman Jones of the Economy subcommittee, and Senators Bingham of Connecticut, Dickinson of Iowa, Republicans, and McKellar, Tennessee, Bratton, New Mexico, and Byrnes, South Carolina, Democrats.

J. C. Rood, Director of the Budget, also was present carrying the bulging brief case from which he is seldom separated.

Mr. Hoover offered alternative suggestions to the Senators and left the fixing of a program entirely in their hands.

In Senator's Hands. Mills said the conference had had time only to outline a general plan, and that Rood would furnish details for the committee as he did during the protracted and often heated meetings of the House Economy committee.

Asked if a tendency had been apparent on the part of the Democratic Senator's present to concur in the plans discussed, Mills hesitated, smiled, and replied:

"It was a very harmonious meeting. The omnibus economy measure, attached to an appropriation bill in the House, was estimated by the special Economy committee which framed it there to be capable of saving $42,000,000 in the piecemeal form in which the House passed it."

The Treasury deficit approached the two and a half billion mark today. On May 9, it had reached $2,497,262,965.

Senator Glass (D. Va.) offered in the Senate today to prove that a member of Congress had been hired, several years ago to oppose the branch banking provisions of the McFadden bill if anyone was willing to take the responsibility for making the evidence public.

Called "Dastardly Lie." In the House, Representative Britten (R. Ill.) called a "dastardly lie" the statement made in debate yesterday by Senator Glass that Chicago bankers had "hired some Congressmen" to defeat branch banking legislation.

Glass had said that when the McFadden branch banking bill was under consideration, Chicago bankers "hired a skilful and persuasive professional lobbyist and paid him a high salary to come here to Washington—worse than that, they hired some Congressmen, to my positive documentary knowledge—to oppose even that small measure of branch banking."

That committee consisted of former Senator Sackett, former Senator Edge and myself. We pursued the inquiry and obtained documentary proof with respect to one more or less prominent member of Congress.
 We had the testimony of this man's family physician that any revelation of that nature would endanger his life and therefore the subcommittee determined not to pursue the investigation any further.
 That Congressman has since died and perhaps I should not have made the reference I did to it.
 Referring to Britten's charge in the House, Glass said:
 "If any one in this or the other branch of Congress is eager to make a revelation of the facts, I still have the documentary evidence."
 The branch banking extension provisions of the Glass measure were assailed in the Senate by Chairman Norbeck of the Banking committee on the contention it would lead to the ultimate destruction of state banks.

Relief Proposals.
 A democratic plan for economic recovery calling for a $2,000,000,000 public works program and $300,000,000 for loans to states and municipalities for relief of suffering resulting from unemployment, was presented to the Senate today by Senator Robinson, the party leader.
 The financing would be by means of bond issues.
 While the Senate listened to him, Senator Davis (R. Pa.), proposed legislation to authorize the Reconstruction Corporation to loan $500,000,000 to cities and states for unemployment relief.
 In presenting the program to an intent Senate, the Democratic leader placed foremost in importance the balancing of the federal budget.

The subject of federal relief was getting more and more attention in the capital.
 President Hoover today called in conference Charles C. Dawes, president of the Reconstruction Corporation and the Secretary Mills, his principal and almost constant financial advisor.
 Both declined definitely to speak of the subject matter of their conference.

GOD?; CANTRELL

The Evangelist Announces Sermon Subject For This Eve

Each Tuesday night of the Cantrell Evangelistic campaign has been Sunday school night. Each school of the co-operating church has striven to have present the largest percentage of their pre- Easter attendance. The friendly rivalry has engendered much interest among the Sunday School members and they have packed the tabernacle every Tuesday night. Last night's crowd was no exception, the tabernacle was packed with enthusiastic youth equaling in number the older folks.

The Church of God School maintained its position at the top having each succeeding Tuesday night the largest percentage of its membership present. The relative position of the other schools is about the same as last week, with the Brethren second, Christian, third, Bethel fourth, Baptist, fifth, Grace sixth and Congregational, in seventh position. There were two class delegations, numbering twenty each, present. They were the Fri-Lio-Ha Class of the Christian church and the Truth-Seekers of the U. E. Church.

Rev. Cantrell announced that he would preach tonight upon, "How Can a Man Please God?" Ray Harris will sing a solo and Dick Choate will play on the xylophone.

The last of the Business Women's Banquet will be held tonight at the Christian church. Rev. James A. Barnett, pastor of the Christian church will deliver the address.

Jimmy Rice is announced to appear with his drum again tomorrow night. Friday night the evangelist will preach upon, "The Sins of Dixon." "Come out and hear this sermon Friday night," urged Rev. Cantrell in his preliminary remarks. "I am going to lay open the sins of this town from the preachers to the bootleggers. That ought to get all the rest of you in-between."

Sunday will be another big day for the revival. A mass meeting for everybody will be held at 2:30 at which time Rev. Cantrell will preach upon, "The Signs of the Time and the Coming of Christ." At the evening service he will preach upon, "Lost, But Still Living."

The Young People's Conference will meet at the Christian church tonight at 6:45 and at the same hour Thursday and Friday. A day of prayer for the revival was observed today at the First Baptist church.

The evangelist's sermon last evening was upon the prophet Elijah and his challenge to Israel and King Ahab. "Why Hail Ye Between Two Opinions?" The sermon sparkled with witty epigrams, humorous illustrations and dramatic portrayals of Bible scenes. The great audience was well entertained as well as instructed. Laughter and applause burst forth at frequent intervals throughout the discourse.

He closed with the masterly address with two gripping illustrations taken from his experience in railroad life. There were five conversions at the close. His sermon in part, follows:
 "Old King Omri died, and King Ahab ascended the throne. God told him he had a chance to pull Israel out of the hole in the ninth inning. But Ahab fell down on the job. It went along very well until he married that old skit Jezebel, and she hated God's preacher just like some putty-faced old she-devil do. Old Jezebel was a finished, cigarette smoking, six-cylinder flapper and she drove her spindle spined apology for a husband with something like an iron rolling pin."
 "Religion had about faded out of Israel. A king came to the throne who had one of the greatest chances that ever a man had in all the history of time. But he chose to go off with the wroth crowd instead of trotting with God and being guided by God's prophet. He deliberately turned his back on God and listened to the advice of a woman he had made his queen and who came from a race of people that had always been idolaters and pagans. When a man hardens his heart and closes his ears to the counsels of God-given prophets he is always bidding for trouble. The woman's name was Jezebel and if there ever was a devil in skirts she was it. She imported a gang of fat old priests and started in to put God out of business in her husband's kingdom. She couldn't go and listen to old Elijah and be

A local grocery placed two ads in last night's paper — one a small meat ad — the other a grocery ad. Today he told our reporter, "I received over 20 orders by 7:30 this morning and we were swamped with orders all forenoon — and I want you to know it pays to advertise in The Telegraph."

comfortable. So she made up her mind to chase him out of the country, and boy, she came mighty near doing it too.

"It looked like the old devil was having things all his own way like he is now with some people. But God had something up his sleeve that the crowd didn't know anything about. He had an old bush-league preacher out there in the brush that loaded up his gun with brass cartridges, barbed wire fences, red pepper and buckshot and when he turned his artillery loose the fur flew and the old sinners took to the tail timber.

Elijah and Ahab
 "Elijah met Ahab one day and each accused the other of being the disturber of the peace of the kingdom. Before it was over Elijah told Ahab that God had closed the faucet and it would not rain until Elijah said it might. Then some more things began to happen. The crops failed and it looked like the stock would all die. Ahab's cavalry and saddle horses had to be taken from one old pool and well to another to keep from dying from thirst. O, it was a hot time, no mistake about that.

"Get on Job"
 "It is time for the church to get on the job for God and save this country from materialism and destruction. God needs people like Elijah, who had a backbone as big as a telephone pole and who would fight all the devils that ever broke out of hell. He had a hide like a rhinoceros and a spirit that couldn't be bluffed by all the Jebels and Arabs that ever came down the pike.

"Elijah kept out of sight for a time and then one day he met Ahab on the highway and told him to get his false prophets and pussyfooting priests over to Mt. Carmel for a contest. He had challenged them to it was a big show and the king and queen came with a great and gaudy gang of soldiers and camp followers. There were 800 priests and helpers on one side and Elijah and his servants on the other. But God and one man make a majority and when God vindicated His word and gave the victory to the lone man and the fickle people fell on their faces and yelled, 'The Lord He is the God.' The rugged old prophet had vindicated his God before all the scoffers and infidels and outlaws, for God has always stood by and upheld the faithful and the courageous and the faith to be true to the message He has given them.

Sends Challenge
 "I fling the challenge to you tonight 'How long halt you between two opinions?' Here is a guy who springs that threadbare excuse about too many hypocrites in the church. Come on in, brother, there is always room for one more. Another old bird says he is not ready now. O, no, you may never see another morning but you are back there and say you are not ready yet. Some of these days God will say He is ready now but you put it off too long and the old clock of time strikes 12 for you. But you poor mutt lost out because you were not ready yet.

"Another sneers and asks what Christianity has done for the world. Say, did you ever hear of

"Another sneers and asks what Christianity has done for the world. Say, did you ever hear of any Tom Payne infirmaries; ever hear of an Ingersol hospital, ever hear of a Voltaire orphanage? No, you poor fool, the kind of things those fellows preached never helped the drunkard out of the dirty ditch, kept a pauper out of the poor house or a soul out of hell. Everything good you enjoy in this world you have because of Christianity. Take it out of this town and your property wouldn't be worth 25 cents on the dollar.

 "Another says he won't accept Christ until he has quit all his meanness. Applause. Just as much sense in telling a kid to stay away from the water until he learns to swim. You go to Christ to learn HOW to be good. If you don't go to Christ until you get good, you will be a flop, a flat tire, a grand blow-out.
 "Can't Hold Out."
 "Another says he hasn't got the can't hold out. When you stood up by the side of your sweetheart and the preacher said, 'Do you take this woman to be your lawfully wedded wife, I suppose you squirmed around and said, 'Well, I'll try it, but I am afraid I can't hold out.' If you had she would have quit you right there and she would have been right, too.
 "Another says he hasn't got the nerve. All right, go out and tell God you're beat. That the old devil has got you down, and you haven't got the intestinal fortitude to try to throw him off. Just let him ride you around here and he will hitch you to a wheelbarrow and chase you around hell for a good many moons.
 "One talks about being a worldly Christian. Just as much sense in talking about a spiritual devil, or a devilish angel. You poor simp, there just ain't no such animal. The thing that must be disgusting to God is a professing Christian who tries to hang onto God with one hand and the devil and the world with the other. You can't serve the devil all your life and then on your deathbed give the preacher a ten dollar bill to land you behind the pearly gates with a harp in your hand, a crown on your head. You ought to give up yourself and let God take you by the hand.
 "Jesus Christ spoke the emancipation proclamation for all the sinners of earth and He died with nails in His hands and a spear thrust in His side

TO A FRINGED GENTIAN
 HAVE never seen an open stretch of boggy swampy ground.
 All full of little holes and humps where the cattle tramp around;
 When golden-rod and asters late that made the fence rows gay.
 Bend to November's bitter wind, beragled heads of grey.
 But that I long to look and linger all along that swale,
 With an ardent fervor, as knights have sought the Holy Grail;
 To see again the gentian, one far autumn day revealed,
 Like a blue-eyed maiden of the ice in a frosty field.
 With a come hither look behind the fringed lashes of her eye she lured the heart away from me, 'neath that November sky.
 And now I seek through lowland meads, a maid with eye of blue.
 That I may kneel at dainty feet, to pledge my love anew.

—Augusta Kerch de Lhorbe.

Marks Closing
Of Kelley School

Saturday, May 7 marked the close of another successful year at the Kelley school. Although the day had dawned somewhat rainy, before noon the large crowd which assembled for the picnic testified to the goodwill of the community. The good housewives of this district are noted for their culinary art and they slighted nothing in the bountiful dinner which was prepared. Fluffy cakes and generous helpings of ice cream completed the dinner.

Those who were neither absent nor tardy during the school year were Ina Lindsey, first grade, and Arthur Leroy Benson, eighth grade. The teacher, Miss Bessie M. Missman, has been retained for the coming year.

The Lee County Chapter of American War Mothers met in the American Legion Hall, Friday afternoon with a very good attendance.

The meeting opened in the usual form. The treasurer and secretary gave their reports and they were ordered placed on file.

Mrs. Lucy Eastman gave a very interesting report on the doings of the State convention held in Centralia on April 17th-18th.

Three state officers were brought back by the Dixon ladies—Mrs. Clea Bunnell the fourth vice-president of the state; Mrs. Viola Strub was appointed corresponding secretary and Mrs. Lucy Eastman magazine chairman for the ensuing year.

The mothers wish to thank the public for the patronage that was given in the sale of the carnations, and they also want to thank the girls who worked so hard to make the sale a success.

Mrs. Minnie Miller and Miss Pauline Dyer who so kindly gave their time and aid during the forenoon are also given a vote of thanks for their help was greatly appreciated.

The next meeting will be held on Friday afternoon May 20th, and a good attendance is desired.

Several Honored
At Dinner Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Rhodes entertained Sunday in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Galgano of California. Mrs. Galgano before her marriage last year was Mrs. Della McMains and they have many friends and relatives in Dixon and Sterling and this vicinity. The Galganos will be married a year July 5th, and left immediately for California by motor, and visited Hollywood, Los Angeles, San Francisco, N. Mexico, etc.

A delicious dinner was served Sunday at noon. Cut flowers formed the centerpiece for the table. The dinner also celebrated the birthday of Mrs. Harry Millhouse, and so there was a tempting birthday cake in the center of the table with the flowers, and the event also honored the mothers present as it was Mother's Day.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rhodes and son, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Millhouse and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Galgano. All enjoyed a happy day and voted Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes royal entertainers. The last named couple arrived here April 22nd and after staying here a few months expect to leave for Denver, Colo., to make their home.

Four Dixonites
On Honor List

Four former students of the Dixon high school are included in the list of honor students at the University of Illinois, according to word received by Principal A. H. Lancaster today. The following have been named by Edward C. Schmidt, chairman of the committee on Honors Day: Warren Eugene Compton, Marion Lucile Schmidt, Geroldine Williams and William Arnold Zoeller.

"Honors Day" was established at the university in 1925, and the eighth annual Honors Day convocation will be held in the University auditorium at 10 o'clock in the morning on Friday, May 13. On this occasion the university gives public recognition to those students whose scholarship record ranks them within the first ten per cent of their class. Their friends are cordially invited to be present. The convocation exercises will be broadcast by the University station, WILL, wave length 337 meters of 890 kilocycles.

For members of the senior, junior and sophomore classes the basis of the honors award is their scholarship record during the two semesters immediately preceding the current term. For freshmen the basis is the record of their first semester's work.

I Must Forget

By HELEN WELSHIMER

I MUST forget the dearsness of your smile,
 Your eager step upon a darkening street;
 The way your eyes sought mine across a room,
 The rhythm of your laugh, low-toned and sweet.
 I must not catch my breath in sudden hurt
 Because a voice says words you used to say,
 Or see a tawny head and wonder how
 Two people's hair could grow that rough-edged way.

I MUST remember only you are gone,
 And do my errands I'll pretend that you
 Are someone in a book that I have read,
 Not anyone I ever really knew,
 And that I have imagined all of this,
 As children sometimes play a foolish game,
 Then maybe I can make myself believe
 That, after all, perhaps you never came.

Helen and Lowell at Parting of the Ways

Los Angeles, Calif., May 11 (AP)—Because Lowell Sherman, director-actor, allegedly told her she was his "mental inferior," Helene Costello, actress, was in possession of a divorce from him today.

After listening to Miss Costello's testimony yesterday, Superior Judge Thomas Ambrose granted the divorce on a cross-complaint. The actress testified less than three minutes and had one supporting witness, Mrs. J. Walter Ruben, who was on the stand for an even shorter time.

"He always acted in a very suspicious manner," said the actress of Sherman, "and this caused me to suffer an inferiority complex. It made me very nervous."

Mrs. Ruben said of Sherman that "he was very opinionated, and it gave Miss Costello an inferiority complex."

Miss Costello charged cruelty, claiming he treated her inhumanly, nagged at her housekeeping, and told her she was unfit as a companion for one of his intellectual attainments.

Sherman, in his complaint, had charged cruelty also, claiming Miss Costello had hit him with a whip, struck his mother, drank to excess and kept a library of very "filthy and erotic" literature.

A property settlement the court was informed, was effected before the divorce proceedings were begun.

THE WAY FAME WORKS.

Edwin Markham, the poet, said recently that he wished people would forget, for a while at least, that he ever wrote a poem called "The Man With the Hoe."

This poem, which made him world-famous when he wrote it some three decades ago, and which is as much alive today as it ever was, follows him, he complained, like an avenging ghost. He has written many other poems and he thinks that some of them have a lot more artistic worth; but no matter what he does or where he goes, he is still known as the author of "The Man With the Hoe," and he's getting a bit tired of it.

All of which, of course, is just another interesting little sidelight on the way fame works.

People like to couple a man's name with one outstanding feat. Once they do this the man's fame is secure, and he can bask in the knowledge that he won't be forgotten; but he may eventually find, as Mr. Markham has found, that he will never be given credit for doing anything else. From that moment on he is a one-achievement man.

Consider, for instance, Richmond P. Hobson, whose long public career faded into nothing, in the public mind, beside the fact that he sank the Merrimac at the mouth of Santiago harbor during the Spanish War.

Then there are James Monroe, about whom the ordinary citizen knows absolutely nothing except that while president he formulated the Monroe doctrine; and Aaron Burr, remembered solely because he killed Alexander Hamilton in a duel; and Henry Clay, about whom we recall nothing except that he had a pleasing knack of devising compromises; and Stephen A. Douglas, who debated with Lincoln; and Benjamin Franklin, whom many remember only in connection with a certain kite-flying episode.

And so it goes. If you are ambitious, beware of a tag; it may make your fame endure, but it will also make it a bit lop-sided.

THOSE GOOD OLD DAYS.

A New York hygienist the other day attained the front page by remarking that the good old days must have been pretty unhealthful. The old oaken bucket, the old swimming hole, the pies that mother used to bake—all of these, he said, may have been highly enjoyable, but they were "tawdry and unsanitary" and if modern life has got us away from them it is a good thing.

All of this may be quite true; but the gentleman really ought to pipe down before he raises a great prejudice against public hygiene. Most people, quite perversely, would rather be happy than hygienic; and if hygienists insist on pointing out the sanitary shortcomings in our most cherished old-time memories they are apt to persuade some of us that there can be things considerably more important than hygiene.

SOCIETY'S REVENGE.

If it is true that a conscience can be an instrument of torture Theodore Lily, sentenced to life imprisonment, should go through an endless inquisition. Lily, who was holding up a grocery store when a little eight-year-old boy entered, heartlessly shot down the child. The Detroit judge who sentenced the murderer decried the fact that his state does not have capital punishment.

The only objection to conscience as an avenger of wrong is the fact that those who commit the gravest sins have been hardened, usually, by such a series of inroads that their suffering is less keen than those whose errors are few. It is only at the beginning of wrong-doing, it would seem, that conscience makes a coward of a man. Certainly Lily had nothing to warn him of the moral wrongness of his act. Perhaps, during the sentence that he must serve, his conscience will awaken again. If it does, the judge need not worry because he could not inflict a death sentence. There are times when death could be merciful.

Politicians responsible for government seem blind to the real issues and concerned for the most part with superficialities. The basic issues are world issues—international debts, tariffs, disarmament, and, we might add, no amount of tinkering with the internal machinery of any government will be of much avail.—Bishop G. Ashton Oldham of Albany, N. Y., Episcopalian.

Rudy is just an ordinary man to me.—Mrs. Rudy Vallee.

If we join the world court, we will be in a better position to protect American interests than if we stand aloof.—Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas.

I see nothing for poor whites born in South Africa but to drown them when they are born. There is nothing to be done.—George Bernard Shaw.

We did not substantiate evidence that crime wave was in existence in Honolulu. Enforcement of the prohibition law compared favorably with conditions on the mainland.—Seth Richardson, sent to Hawaii as a special investigator.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The roller skates made lots of fun and were a treat for everyone. The Tynmites were circling round and going rather fast.

As old man play looked on, he cried, "Be careful, now, that you don't slide. If anybody takes a flop, the pleasure will not last."

"I've oiled these skates up very well. That's why they seem to run so swell. You Tynmites sure know how to skate. Have you tried it before?"

"Oh, sure!" cried Duncy, with a grin. "Just watch me, now, and I'll begin to do a flock of clever tricks right out here on the floor."

The other Tynmites stood aside while funny little Duncy tried some of the tricks he thought he knew. However, things went wrong.

He went so fast he couldn't stop and suddenly he took a flop. Cried Windy, "What a funny trick! It didn't take you long."

Then old man play cried, "That's enough. I fear that, if you get too rough, you'll hurt yourself." And so they all stopped skating for the day.

"What can we do now?" Scouty cried. "Just rest," said Duncy, as he sighed. "Oh, no!" replied the play man. "We'll continue with our play."

"I have some kites that you can fly away up toward the bright blue sky. Please wait here till I get them. I'll have one for each of you."

"Then you can run and let them rise. They are a treat for youngsters' eyes." He disappeared and then came back. Then there was much ado.

Of course the Tynmites were glad to do the sailing. Soon they had a number of the biggest kites flying in the air.

They heard the kindly play man say, "Please do not let them get away. Hang to the string real tightly, when the kites get way up there."

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

THIS OUTLINE OF SCIENCE

AVOIDS USUAL ERRORS

Most of the scientific "outline" books are pretty dismal affairs. Either they leave the abstruse propositions which they set out to explain about as dark as they found them, or they over-simplify them and fill the trusting reader with a lot of information that isn't so.

It's refreshing, therefore, to come across a book which does the job as neatly as it is done in "Rambling Through Science," by A. L. DeLeeuw. This book, which summarizes and explains the accomplishments and the theories of modern science, is just about as good a book of its kind as I have yet seen.

Mr. DeLeeuw possesses the rare merit of being able to simplify a highly complicated subject without sacrificing any of the essentials.

Using homely illustrations that the lay reader is sure to be familiar with, he discusses such things as relativity, the measurement of the speed of light, the make-up of atoms, the way radium behaves, the theory of the ether, and so on, and makes those things about as clear as they can ever be to benighted souls who lack a thorough scientific education.

He also traces the history of scientific research, tells how the great discoveries were made and how the great theories were formulated and tested, and does it all in a simple, readable and intelligent manner.

All in all, "Rambling Through Science" provides you with a singularly pleasant way of brushing up your knowledge of science.

Tax Problems In This State

By PROF. M. H. HUNTER

University of Illinois

20. Are Intangible Property? The constitution of Illinois requires that all property be assessed. It is the duty of the assessor and the assessed to list mortgages, stocks, bonds, notes, money in the bank, etc. The statistics of assessment show how inadequate are the results.

One is led to question the soundness of the classification of intangibles as property. The mortgage is one form which has caused considerable trouble. Obviously to assess a piece of land at full value, and then to assess the mortgage that is against it, is a case of unwarranted double taxation. The mere issue of a claim to one-half the value of a $50,000 farm does not increase the taxpaying ability of the farm. If the farm is taxed at full value, and in addition the mortgage is taxed, it means that the burden is 50 per cent greater than that upon unencumbered land.

The situation with corporate securities is much the same. Bonds are simply evidences of indebtedness while shares of stock are records of ownership of property. The stock is more or less valuable as the property is more or less valuable. The destruction of property given as security for a bond destroys the value of the bond. These pieces of paper are merely evidences of contract, and to tax them in addition to the property is unwarranted double taxation. No one believes that the wealth of the United States was increased by $28,000,000,000 when the Federal Government issued bonds to that amount.

Assume that five men are in a partnership, each drawing a salary of $3,000 and a share in the income of $3,000 each. They incorporate and each takes shares of stock. Now the assessor is expected to assess each of the five on the amount of stock owned by him, although he has no more real property nor income than before. The possession of all forms of tangible property does not give ability to pay taxes. Some one gives you a diamond worth $50,000 and the assessor puts it on his books at that figure. With a tax rate of 5, just where are you going to get the $2,500 with which to pay the tax?

Perhaps some of our difficulties with the property tax lies in the fact that we have been attempting to tax things which are in reality not property.

CHERRY DIXON asked Dan Phillips to marry her. She was 19, beautiful and rich. Dan hadn't a cent beyond his weekly salary. Cherry knew he wouldn't ask her to give up the luxuries to which she was accustomed for the little he could offer her. So Cherry took matters into her own hands. 100,000 TO SEE DEDICATION OF WASHINGTON MASONIC MEMORIAL

$5,000,000 Edifice Crowns Drive of 22 Years

Three and a half million Masons of the United States will see the culmination of a 22-year-old dream when the $5,000,000 George Washington Masonic National Memorial is dedicated May 12 on the crest of a hill overlooking historic Alexandria, Va.

With President Hoover and high Masonic officials in attendance, the solid granite edifice towering above the winding Potomac will be opened formally as a tribute to Washington, the Mason and the man.

One hundred thousand Masons from all parts of the United States are expected to attend the service which will be directed by Charles H. Callahan, past grand master of Masons of Virginia.

The memorial stands on a tract once owned by Washington and which, but for his intervention, would have been the site of the national capitol. From its towers, may be seen the city of Washington, six miles to the north.

Almost at the foot of the memorial lies the city of Alexandria where is located the Masonic lodge of which Washington was the first master.

Entrance to the structure is through a portico of eight Doric columns, the whole a unit of pure Greek architecture. This leads to the great atrium, comprising the central room of the structure and forming the memorial hall.

In a faithful replica of the old hall of lodge 39, of which Washington was master, will be housed the priceless collection of relics and intimate records of Washington's life in Masonry. There, too, will be housed also Washington's personal possessions and relics associated with every stage of his career.

A few moments after Washington died at Mt. Vernon, Dr. Elisha Cullen Dick, an old friend who had held the post of honor during the Masonic ceremonies at the laying of the cornerstone of the national capitol, cut the pendulum of the clock which stood in Washington's bedroom.

Imposing facade of the George Washington Masonic National Memorial and, at the right, Washington as master of the Alexandria, Va., Masonic lodge, from an old painting.

Its hands still point to the moment which ended Washington's glorious career 20 minutes past ten p. m., on Dec. 14, 1799. This clock is one of the many relics to be enshrined in the edifice.

The second colonnade story of the structure will be the State Memorial room, the third will house an extensive library and the top will be for observation purposes.

The George Washington Memorial," said Louis A. Watres, Scranton

publisher and president of the memorial association, is more than a memorial. It is a monument to Freemasonry, a monument to civil and religious liberty and to a stable, orderly and constitutional government.

"It will proclaim to the world that Washington's sentinel ideals still guard the imperishable purposes by which his great career was governed—ideals that constitute the real foundation of government."

Roosevelt will show up with more than 300 votes. His enemies hope they can count on about 400 to hold out against him, leaving about 200 to be scrambled for. The probability still is that a majority of 578 will mean nomination for Roosevelt or any other candidate who gets it, regardless of the two-thirds rule.

And once more you wind up impressed with the probable great importance of the 94 votes from New York which Tammany, under the unit rule, expects to cast en bloc—for somebody.

Dead Shark Yields Twenty Useful Articles

Washington, D. C. — "Sharking" is another new industry which South Africa is finding profitable, according to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Many sharks are taken in the old-fashioned way with huge, baited hooks and towed to slaughter houses on the shore, but modern companies have taken a tip from the whaling industry. Small shark boats have been displaced by well-equipped, floating shark abattoirs.

"Shark nets are so made and placed in the water that the big fish, once entangled, is on its first lap to the markets of the world in the form of some twenty valuable commodities.

Shark "Drowns" Itself
"In a desperate attempt to liberate itself from the net, the shark literally kills itself and is hoisted aboard the 'sharker' for dissection. Chicago meat men boast that they use every particle of a pig except its squeal. The shark industry utilizes the whole shark and excepts nothing, for there is no squeal, nor even a grunt.

"On the dissecting table, a monster first loses its fins. They are thrown into vats where they begin a journey leading to the soup bowls of well-to-do Chinese. Then the skin succumbs to sharp knives of expert cutters. Formerly the raw skin with its hard, scalelike crystals was used for polishing wood. The denticles also made the skin popular as sword and knife grips.

"When cheap sandpaper appeared on the market, the expensive shark skin (shagreen) lost some of its usefulness. Meanwhile scientists invented a process by which the rough surface of the skin could be removed without damage to the skin and it was but a short time until shoes, purses, coats and many other leather goods of the world's department stores. Properly tanned, shark skin is soft, durable and non-fading, and it readily takes color. Leather made of shark skin does not crack.

Shark meat is stripped from the carcass in foot-square slabs. Dried and packed, most of it finally turns up on African or Malayan dinner tables. The shark liver gives up an oil that might easily be mistaken for codliver oil. It also contains vitamins. Shark-liver oil is widely used in the manufacture of margarine and soaps and in tempering fine steel. A liver seven feet long, weighing 200 pounds was taken from a 13-foot tiger shark.

"Pigments are extracted from the shark's gall bladder and some of the shark's glands are the source of valuable drugs. Glue, fertilizer and poultry feed also are valuable shark products.

"Once an Australian business house received an order for 100,000 sharks' teeth from the South Sea Islands where they are as good as silver in the United States. Many thousands of teeth that do not go to the South Seas are transported, cleaned and decorated with gold and silver, and finally adorn Chinese women."

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington — The one thing which seems to have been assured by the recent Democratic presidential primaries is a hot time in Chicago at the end of June.

It looks more and more like a dog fight. It seems very unlikely that Governor Roosevelt of New York can win on the first ballot and not unlikely that he will be lost in the shuffle while the leaders get their heads together and decide which Democrat they want to oppose Hoover.

Uncertainties Dominate
Uncertainties now dominate the whole picture, but at the same time it is too early to assume that the New York governor is due to be licked simply because he ran so much more poorly than he was expected to in California, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. Some of the uncertainties may be resolved in his favor.

There is no question, for instance, that Roosevelt will have a better chance to be nominated than Alfred E. Smith, who is expected to have the next largest number of delegates on the first ballot, or Speaker Jack Garner, who probably will run third.

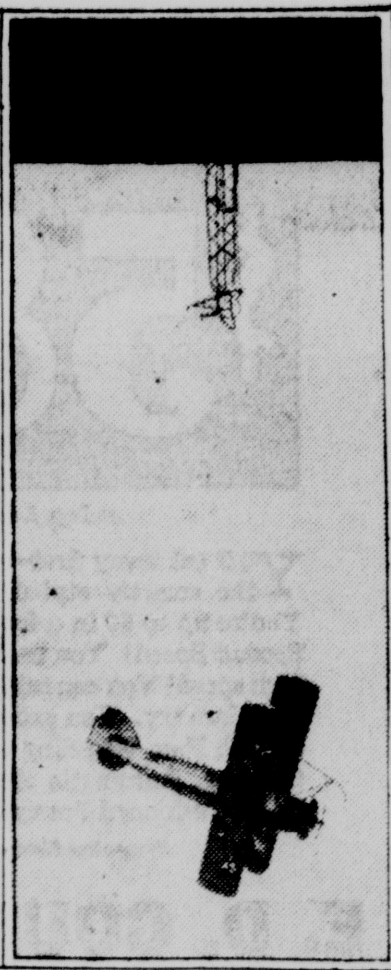

Precedent May Be Broken
Roosevelt will have at least four times as many first ballot delegates as Garner, it now appears, and from two to three times as many as Smith. One cannot recall any political convention where the leading candidate entering so far ahead of his next nearest opponent failed to land the nomination.

Even with Roosevelt out of the picture, there would be little or no chance of Smith's nomination, and Garner's prospects wouldn't

CUBS' PITCHERS

BEST IN EITHER LEAGUE; GO GREAT

Young Lon Warneke Has Rounded Out Formidable Mound Staff

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associate Press Staff Writer
Tearing along three games in front of their closest pursuers today their great pitching staff mowing down opposing batters with relentless efficiency and their hitters thumping in unison, the Chicago Cubs threaten to make a runaway of the National League race.

When young Lon Warneke set the New York Giants down yesterday, 9 to 2, the leaders scored their fourth straight victory over eastern clubs and their thirteenth win in sixteen engagements. Unless Rogers Hornsby's team is slowed down soon, it will pile up such an advantage it will be able to coast through to the flag.

Warneke's sensational hurling has rounded out one of the most formidable staffs in either league. In winning his first five games, in each of which he went the full distance, the 23-year-old product of Mount Ida, Ark. has given up only nine runs, all told. His work has overshadowed that of such veteran mates as Malone, Bush, Smith, Root and Grimes, and they have done well enough.

Got Five Hits
The Giants could find Warneke for only five hits yesterday, two of which came after two were out in the ninth and provided their second run. In six of the nine games, he was unhittable. His teammates whaled three Giant hurlers for 11 safeties, every man in the line-up getting at least one. They were helped along by three Giant errors running the total for McGraw's crew to 42 errors in 20 games.

The day's only other National League bout saw the Phillies break Cincinnati's five game winning streak, 4 to 0, behind Ray Benge's effective pitching. Five Red hits were widely spaced.

Rain checked the scheduled activities at Pittsburgh and St. Louis.

Sorrell Was Great
Vic Sorrell turned in the day's American League masterpiece when he allowed the Boston Red Sox only two hits in pitching the Detroit Tigers to a 11 to 0 victory. Hal Rhyme's two singles knocked Sorrell out of a no-hit game.

Lefty Grove was almost as effective against the Chicago White Sox, blanking them, 9 to 0. The great southpaw allowed six hits but bared down in the pinches. Jimmy Dykes knocked in four of the winner's runs with a home run and a double.

The wildness of Walter Stewart and "Bump" Bailey, who distributed eleven walks, helped the Yankees trounce the St. Louis Browns, 10 to 2, in their delayed opener. Vernon Gomez held the Browns to seven hits in his fourth win of the year and likely would have had a shutout but for weak fielding behind him in the fifth, when the visitors scored all their runs.

Cleveland was rained out at Washington.

Trainer Of Derby Winner Ranks Him

New York, May 11—(AP)—Burgoo King, Kentucky Derby winner, ranks no better than third in the affections of his trainer, Dick Thompson.

"Blue Larkspur was the greatest horse I ever trained," Thompson said at Belmont Park where Burgoo King is resting preparatory to the Preakness at Pimlico Saturday.

"Next to him I would rank Bubbling Over which won his Derby by six lengths. Blue Larkspur finished fourth in the 1929 renewal of that classic.

Although final decision was not to be made until after a workout today, Burgoo King seems an almost certain starter in the Preakness. Eugene James, who booked him home first in the Derby, is expected to hold the reins again Saturday.

MCGRAW CHAGRIN—
John McGraw, manager of the Giants, has suffered more than one disappointment during his baseball campaign but perhaps the one that galls him most is the failure of Outfielder Leonard Koenecke to demonstrate major league ability.

Mr. McGraw scouted Koenecke personally at Indianapolis last summer and placed upon him the stamp of a great discovery. Koenecke hasn't been clicking at bat or afield. Maybe he should have sent Dick Kinsella to Indianapolis to give the young man the once over.

HARPER IS BULLISH—
Seven hundred men came out for spring sports this year at Notre Dame, 200 of these for the Athletics where they play in the fair strenuous style. Thus, the other day the Zagreb Football Association passed new rules to take roughness out of the game.

One of the new rules is that the player who jumps on another with both feet must be warned. Another restriction is against striking an opponent during a dispute, the penalty for which is being ruled off.

It sounds interesting. Maybe Notre Dame would enjoy a game with the Jugoslavs.

THE ROBOT PITCHER—
Somebody in San Francisco has invented a robot pitcher. The suggestion was made to the enterprising Lew Fonseca that he try to acquire the automatic finger for his White Sox. Mr. Fonseca's reply was to the effect that he already had a whole bunchful of robot moundmen.

BREAKFAST FOOD MANUFACTURERS SHOWING PROFIT

Head Of Oats Products Corporation Talks Of The Industry

Conrad G. Dyke, president of the Oats Products Corporation, today, commenting on the financial condition of various corporations manufacturing breakfast foods, said:

"Current assets and financial position of various breakfast food manufacturers have been recently published in the various newspapers showing earnings of the first quarter, and in most instances the reports show an increased earning over the same period for the previous year. Notable among these is the report of the Cream of Wheat Corporation which showed current assets as of December 31, 1931 of $3,058,546 against $2,996,841 for the previous year, their cash position was more than $200,000 better than the previous year. "Cream of Wheat," as the breakfast food is known is the only product manufactured by this corporation and originally stated in a North Dakota flour mill in 1895. But this corporation has grown from a small flour mill to a $3,000,000 company with its product being sold over the entire world, which is a fitting testimonial of good management and a quality product."

Notable Dividend History
"Previous to 1929 when the corporation was reorganized there were only 400 share holders, but in the new capitalization they received 1500 shares of the new corporation stock. The record of the dividends paid to the original stockholders is more like a dream than a reality, the record of dividends from 1924 up to the time of the recapitalization is as follows:

Year	Rate Per Share
1924	$3,000.00
1925	2,500.00
1926	3,000.00
1927	2,501.50
1928	3,000.00
1929 (to June 30)	2,400.56

Much can be said about this corporation, but the most outstanding characteristic is the successful management and judicious use in the purchasing of raw material. This in itself is perhaps the most important cog in the thirty-seven years operation of this company. The fact that this company has specialized in the manufacture of only one product, making that product with utmost care, as to quality, uniformity, etc., is indicative of what can be done in any industry which uses the same precaution.

Oats Products Corporation
"Making a comparison of the Cream of Wheat Corporation with the Oat Products Corporation, we find the following similarity: We have only 750 shares of the preferred stock which will be offered to the public. We will have the exclusive manufacture of our new patented product Toasted Oat Flakes which we intend to sell under the trade name "Toasty-Oats". Our manufacturing profit will be greater due to the fact that oats are always cheaper than wheat, yet our selling cost will be approximately the same. The newer methods of getting distribution nationally, at a much cheaper cost, and quicker publicity at less cost, will enable us to create a demand throughout the United States at approximately one tenth the cost in the days when Cream of Wheat was first introduced. The fact that we will be the exclusive manufacturers of this new product by reason of the patent control. And the fact that rolled oats in its present form is probably the largest selling breakfast food offered to the public. These facts digested should convince anyone that stock of the Oat products Corporation offers an opportunity similar to that originally issued to the holders of Cream of Wheat Corporation."

"Toasty Oats"
The ordinary rolled oats as sold today may be cooked in various manners from two and one-half minutes to fifteen minutes, depending on the methods used. Toasty Oats, in the process of manufacture is cooked the equivalent of four hours and then toasted in ovens. This means when you receive the finished product that you are able to eat a product which has been thoroughly cooked and done to a turn which the most competent housewife could not duplicate. When you eat this new product you will be convinced that as you like it, so will the rest of the people in the United States like it when given the opportunity. It is hoped that in the near future after the equipment has been installed at the Oats Products Corporation plant, the people in Dixon will have the opportunity of tasting this new product—"Toasty

WET CANDIDATES SWEEP PRIMARY IN OHIO TUESDAY

Hoover Gains The Entire Delegation of Buckeye Republicans

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Governor George White of Ohio stepped into the Democratic presidential lists today with the all but solid backing of his state, while Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York gathered in West Virginia's delegate vote.

On the Republican side President Hoover was assured the solid convention strength of both states, completing the expected results in yesterday's primaries without upset. The President also picked up Tennessee and Wyoming delegates in state conventions.

The Ohio delegate contests were overshadowed by apparently decisive victories right down the line for anti-prohibition candidates. Leading these was young David S. Ingalls, grasping the Republican gubernatorial nomination on a repeal plank, and Attorney General Gilbert Battman, successful apparently in defeating Louis J. Taber, Master of the National Grange, for the party's Senatorial selection. Battman urged repeal while Taber was staunchly dry.

White For Referendum
Governor White, favoring a prohibition referendum, won his Democratic renomination handily, while the wet Senator Bulkeley was unopposed within his party.

All Democratic delegates opposing White were defeated except one supporter of Newton D. Baker at Akron, who had a good chance at being seated. Six delegates in the Cleveland district pledged to the support of Alfred E. Smith, were sunk three to one.

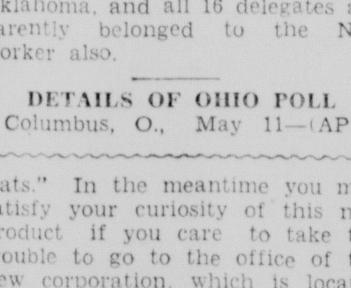

President Hoover's few opponents were being swamped at about the same rate.

West Virginia's preference vote went to Roosevelt in a 10 to 1 victory over Governor Murray of Oklahoma, and all 16 delegates apparently belonged to the New Yorker also.

SCHEMES FOR COOPERATIVE PRODUCTIONS HIT BOTH BROADWAY AND HOLLYWOOD

By GILBERT SWAN
NEA Service Writer

New York. —Revolt and change sweep the entertainment world from Hollywood Boulevard to Broadway.

While the star rebellion goes on in Hollywood, involving Jimmy Cagney, Director Von Sternberg, Marlene Dietrich and other favorite screen notables there are portents in Manhattan of spectacular developments. In the process of being launched any moment, for instance, is a cooperative film concern, to be known as the Screen Guild.

Headed and organized by Mike Levee, veteran movie executive, the Guild already has the backing of such notables as Mary Pickford, Cecil de Mille, Frank Lloyd, Merwyn Leroy, George Fitzmaurice, and Benjamin Glazer.

Under the cooperative plans of the Guild, stars or directors who believe in their hit-making talents would not have to wrangle over salary contracts, studio policies and such; they would share in the profits of the picture. Levee says there are scores willing and anxious to take such a chance. Overhead on production would be cut to minimum, since the pay would be lessened in consideration of the possible co-op profits of a hit picture.

Just before I left for New York, related Levee, "I had a little gathering in my Hollywood home. Practically every big director was there. And enthusiasm was apparent. Every director has had some picture he dreamed of making; every scenarist has had some story he believed in but could never get considered, thanks to the old studio methods.

"The Guild will release through United Artists. We are not out to fight the film concerns; we are merely coming in with a new idea at what seems the propitious moment. Two years ago such an idea as this would have been impossible. Today it fills a recognized gap.

"Everyone who knows the business side of Hollywood is aware of the ridiculous overhead in almost every studio. Seemingly this is unavoidable under former organizations. But it's all simplified in a profit sharing arrangement."

COMMENCEMENT AT AMBOY HAS BEEN PLANNED

Program For Festivities of Graduating Class Complete

By Francis Lepperd

AMBOY—Edward Dumphy of the University of Illinois was home for the week end.

Lieut. Francis Jacobs who spent the week end here at the home of his parents gave Amboyans plenty of thrills Saturday afternoon when he flew his army plane over the town and maneuvered a number of daring stunts.

Mr. and Mrs. Ned Rossiter and son Donald and daughters Wanda and Maxine of Dixon visited Saturday evening at the Thomas Lepperd home.

Ira Lough of Dixon was an Amboy visitor Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Brewer are the parents of an eight pound son born Saturday. The little fellow has been named Bruce Rolland.

Mrs. L. Courtney who resides in Dixon was a business visitor at Monday.

Mrs. C. L. Thurston and daughters Camilla and Maude visited at the Charles Schalle home in Ohio Sunday afternoon and Sunday evening they visited at the Gene Taylor home in Dixon. Mrs. Schalle and Mrs. Taylor are daughters of Mrs. Thurston.

Mrs. Roy Gooch and Mrs. Clem Miller have returned from Sac City, Iowa, where they attended the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gooch.

George Omen of Dixon was a business caller here Monday. Walter Lepperd returned to his work at Polo Monday morning after spending the week end here at the home of his parents.

Jean Clayton, student nurse at St. Francis hospital in Freeport, spent Saturday evening here at the home of her parents, Mr. and Charles Clayton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hemphill moved to Louisville, Ky., Friday night where they attended the Derby Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Dickinson entertained Sunday with a dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Carroll who were quietly married Sunday morning at the parsonage of St. Patrick's church. Mr. and Mrs. Carroll left Sunday afternoon

These people are doing something about the depression in which the stage and screen have found themselves. M. C. Levee, upper right, is president of the newly-founded Screen Guild and Mary Pickford, center, is one of the movie notables who are backing him. Christopher Morley, upper left, is a leader in the New York Stage Society, a try-out organization. And Romney Brent, below, is one of the heads of the Commonwealth Theater, another cooperative venture.

Broadway, downcast at the fag end of the worst season in its history, with theaters dark and producers fearful of sinking money in stage ventures, sees new hope and promise in experiments now being readied for another year.

The group guild and cooperative ideas predominate.

Most original of several propositions is the Commonwealth Theater, which will have for the first time a cooperative audience. Its method is this: three sets of auditors as odd as it sounds. The benches will be sold memberships.

for a visit in Denver, Colo.

The many friends of Miss Helen Green will regret to learn she is very ill with diphtheria. This is the first case to be reported in this vicinity.

Marion Virgil of Chicago spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Harry Longman.

Margaret Rambeau of Normal was home over the week end.

after the fashion of the Theater Guild. Members get seats to four productions. They attend the premieres and act as critics. Having voting power, they determine whether a given play merits production. If the drama goes on and wins success, the members share in the profits.

Heading this unique concern are Deems Taylor, composer and critic, and Romney Brent well known actor.

Then there is the New York Stage Society. It has another twist in that it is merely a try-out theater. On its play-reading board are such well known literary folk as Christopher Morley, Carl Van Doren, Barrett Clark, John Erskine and A. Cleon Throckmorton. They will produce plays for members only and the general public must wait to see what happens. If a production appears to have real commercial possibilities, the important Broadway managers will be called in to bid on it. If someone decides to put it on, then the play becomes public property. Which is, for once, a try-out scheme which at least insures money back for all concerned.

GRANDMOTHER IS THE CHAUFFEUR

Mrs. Jessie Timmis, 119 E. Crawford, Elkhart, Ind., telling Miss Margaret Lane about her Iso-Vis lubricated Buick that has covered 36,000 miles in 4 years without any repair expense.

An Interview by MARGARET LANE

Reporter, London Daily Express and International News Service

"I'm a grandmother. But that's no reason why I shouldn't be a good driver. Well, I tell you ... My own mother lives here with me, and she's seventy-six, and loves to go out in the car every bit as much as I do."

Mrs. Jessie Timmis went on with her cooking in her immaculate little kitchen at 119 East Crawford, in Elkhart, Indiana. "Sometimes," she said, "Mother and I, and my daughter and her boys all go out driving together. There are four generations of us living in Elkhart, but I'm chauffeur for the whole family.

"Life's very quiet here. I can't tell you what a blessing it is having a car. Mother's very frail now, you know, and couldn't go places at all if I didn't drive her."

She pointed with her spoon through the kitchen window. "The car's out there in the garage. Of course, I don't know a whole lot about the engine, but it seems I don't have to. I depend a great deal on the boys at the service station, and since they started me on Iso-Vis Motor Oil I've had no trouble summer or winter.

"I've had this car four years. With the help of Iso-Vis, I've gone 36,000 miles and all I've ever had done to the engine was to have new spark plugs put in.

"Come back in the other room and I'll show you on the map some of the long trips we've taken. Perhaps you think us a bit crazy, flying about the country the way we do. "Well, I tell you, my dear, there's no trouble in motoring when a car goes as smoothly as ours does."

Mrs. Timmis' 36,000 trouble-free miles prove again what Iso-Vis has demonstrated in laboratory tests and in A. A. A. tests on the Indianapolis Speedway—Positive Lubrication Protection. Iso-Vis (a Standard Oil product) will not thin out from dilution. See the Ball and Bottle Test at Standard Oil service stations and dealers.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

The granite dome of Stone Mountain will never be called to give up its precious cargo of radium. In spite of the fact that it contains 120 millions of dollars worth, the rock constitutes too low grade an ore to be worth working. On the side of Stone Mountain is carved the colossal monument of the Southern Confederacy. The Socialist party in 1920 nominated Debs for the presidency while he was serving time in the Federal penitentiary, for seditious utterances made during the war. He did not serve out his entire prison term, however, being finally released by President Harding.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SUSAN CAREY, pretty secretary who is in love with BOB DUNBAR, has a proposal of marriage from BEN LAMPMAN, penniless young musician. She resists him. Ben is jealous and several weeks later when Susan agrees to marry ERNEST HEATH, her employer, Ben shoots at Heath, then turning the gun on himself. Meanwhile DENISE ACKERD has informed Bob that Susan is going to marry Ben. Ben's condition is serious and Susan is distraught. JACK WARING, Heath's assistant, tells Bob that Susan is still free. Bob tries to tell her but can not. Susan's aunt who is ill goes south and Susan stays with friends. She does not get Bob's message. Ben begins to show signs of recovering and Susan tries to tell Heath she does not love him because she does not love him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVII

AFTER wavering in the balance for several days Ben Lampman's condition suddenly improved. The doctor announced that Ben would recover. Susan did not make another trip to the hospital. From Ernest Heath she heard the details of Ben's convalescence. As soon as the young man was strong enough to travel he would go to California where a job in an orchestra awaited him.

Poor Ben! There was something pitiful about him, even about his magnificently foolish behavior. Susan was delighted to know that his recovery was certain but the inevitable reaction had set in. She was annoyed with Ben for having made her conspicuous. She felt he had placed her in a false and ridiculous position. It wasn't as if she had ever encouraged him. She hadn't. And she had him to thank for opening anew the whole problem of her marriage.

Before the shooting her course had seemed so simple and so plain. It had seemed both generous and wise of her to accept Ernest Heath's name and protection. Now she saw that love was never wild but always irrational, wild and passionate. It was Ben who had made that clear to her. She knew he had not meant to do it but he had accomplished it just the same.

She procrastinated. She let the days pass without coming to a decision. She even wore, nowadays, on the third finger of her left hand a ring with a single shining stone. She would plan each night how to tell Ernest Heath on the morrow of her change of heart but always at the last minute her courage would fail. Then, too, she had to think of Aunt Jessie. She had promised herself she would take care of Aunt Jessie always.

She tried to talk to Rose about it but there was not much help from this quarter since she did not dare to speak of Bob Dunbar. After all, what was there to tell? She and Bob had shared a few glorious moments of perfect mutual comprehension. Once in a life time, fools and wise men say, one meets his mate. Whether this be true or not, Susan thought she had found hers in this tall, fair, sunburned young man whose world was so different from hers. But how could she explain all that to Rose? Practical Rose would ask, "Did he ever say anything? I mean did he ask you to marry him?" And Rose would be sure to shake her head sadly over the admission that he had not. Rose approved of Ernest Heath. She said and thought that Susan was a lucky girl.

So the days slipped by and nearer came the date set for the wedding. Aunt Jessie wrote glowing letters from Florida. She was feeling ever so much better, she said. She would be home soon.

One afternoon when Susan went over to the little house to see if all was well there she met Mr. Schultz, the next door neighbor.

"Young feller's been around asking about you," he told her.

Susan's heart gave a wild leap. It was preposterous, of course, but suppose Bob should have been looking for her! She forced herself to speak casually. "What was he like?" she asked.

Mr. Schultz was, as he would have put it, "no great hand at description." He fumbled for words. "Oh, a sort of medium sized—well maybe he was tallish, young feller," he said slowly. "He wore a gray overcoat and no hat like these college boys selling magazines."

Her disappointment was keen. "I guess maybe he was one of those," Mr. Schultz said, feeling he had failed her but not quite knowing why.

"I suppose so," Susan answered. When she went into the house she heard the telephone bell ringing and sped for it but just before she reached the dining room the bell gave a final gasp and stopped. Susan picked up the receiver with fingers that trembled. The operator's matter-of-fact voice droned, "Number please?"

"You called this number," Susan told her fiercely.

"Sorry but there's no one on the wire now."

The girl could have wept at the words. Someone had been trying to reach her. All her immediate friends knew she was staying at Rose's. It might have been—it might have been the one person she longed to hear from!

For the hundredth time Susan chided herself for her folly. How could she go on hoping in the face of so many disappointments? If she had known that at that instant Bob Dunbar was disconsolately quitting a pay station in the loop, her heart would have leapt for joy. But Susan had no way of knowing that. Everyone seemed to push her toward this marriage—Heath—who wished to give her so much. Mrs. Milton whose sound common sense and innate worldliness rejoiced in a good match, Aunt Jessie who was so helpless.

"It's too late to back out now," the girl told herself recklessly. "I must go through with it."

HEATH was taking her to dinner and to the theater that evening. Listlessly the girl rubbed and arrayed herself. How different it was, she thought, to be going out with one man and with the only man! She took no pleasure tonight in her appearance although her mirror gave back the image of a slim, glowing girl in a simple white frock. She knew she looked well but she didn't care. It didn't seem to matter. The thought of that telephone call remained persistently in the back of her mind. Of course it might have been no one. It might have been a wrong number but there was always the chance—

Mrs. Milton appeared at the door of the bedroom, beaming at her. "My, but you do look fine," she said. "Guess what I've got for you!"

Susan widened her eyes. "I never could. Did you bake a devil's food cake?"

Mrs. Milton snorted. "Listen to the girl," she implored the ceiling. "No, it's nothing like that. Can't you think of something better?"

Susan said she could not. She was brushing her hair, pressing it into sleek waves around her face. Mrs. Milton with the air of a conjurer produced a huge green dressmaker's box.

"There must be a mistake," Susan said. "It must be something for Rose. I didn't buy a thing."

"Your name is on it, large as life," Mrs. Milton told her triumphantly.

"Sorry but there's no one on the wire now."

Excitedly the two cut the strings.

and folded back the tissue.

"My great glory!" muttered Mrs. Milton, almost reverently. "Lift it out, child." She was frankly impatient. Susan obeyed, draping over her arm the soft, rich coat of leaf brown fur.

"It doesn't look like mink," muttered Mrs. Milton. "I don't know as I ever saw sable at close range but I believe that's what this is." She gazed at the girl with awe.

SUSAN stammered, "I can't take it from him." So this was what Heath had meant the night before when he spoke of a surprise.

"Can't take it? I'd like to know why," demanded Mrs. Milton roundly. "Aren't you going to be married in two weeks? It's perfectly proper. Anyhow you'll have to wear it tonight or he'll be disappointed. Men," concluded Mrs. Milton sagely, "don't like to be disappointed."

Half fearfully Susan slipped into the sumptuous wrap. Above the fur her face rose clear and pale and proud. It changed her, subtly altered her whole aspect.

"You look stunning," Mrs. Milton whispered. She ran her hands over the velvet-soft surface of the fur and Susan did likewise. The girl thought she knew now why women were enthralled by the promise of riches. There was something insidious about such a coat.

When Heath arrived a few moments later his eyes shone with pleasure at the sight of her.

"It's much too fine for me," Susan told him shyly.

"My dear," said the man with some emotion, "nothing is." He drew her to him. Susan rested her palms against the silk lapels of his dinner coat. She hated herself for the thought but she hoped he wasn't going to kiss her.

Almost as if he divined her thoughts, the man looked at her shrewdly, smiled, and let her go.

"There, we shall be late if we don't hurry," Simon smiled at her as he helped her into the car. Was this all true, Susan wondered, or was she dreaming? Was she soon to be mistress of so much grandeur?

They rode through shabby streets where children pelted each other with snow balls and tired workmen plodded home through the dark. Susan shivered, pulling the fur closer around her throat. Why was she here when her heart belonged somewhere else?

The truth is that both the so-called militarist and the so-called pacifist are equally eager to protect their homes and to defend their country the means.

The militarist believes that the way to get peace is to become so strong in the piling up of your weapons that nobody will dare to attack you. The pacifist believes that the way to get peace is to become so just and so friendly that nobody will desire to attack you.

STOOL PIGEONS FORBIDDEN BY FEDERAL COURT

Judge Carpenter Censures Governmental Dry Agents

Chicago, May 10.—(AP)—Promises of immunity or leniency to indicted dry law violators by prohibition agents are illegal, Federal Judge George A. Carpenter holds, and ordered that agents cease the use of indicted men as stool pigeons.

The dictum was handed down yesterday while the Judge was sentencing Peter Doukezas and his bartender, Hyacinth Grubich of La Salle, Ill. Doukezas was twice indicted, for possession and sale of liquor and for running a still. Grubich for a single sale.

A sentence of ten days in jail and a $25 fine was fixed for Grubich. Then Doukezas' lawyer pleaded that Doukezas had helped the agents at Ottawa, Ill., and was entitled to leniency.

The Judge then questioned Doukezas and was told that the agents had promised to "do what they could" for him if he helped them find other bootleggers. Various agents admitted this.

The Judge also learned that Doukezas had given information after his first indictment, then, believing he was immune, had set up his still. Though this was raised, he continued giving information up to last week.

"I would suggest," said the Judge, "that, if government agents must make use of stool pigeons, they do it before the indictment of the stool pigeon. There must be no more communication between the accused and the agent after the indictment. This man believed he had obtained a certain immunity by his service as an informer. Although the agents had no right to make such a bargain, nevertheless, I am going to carry out your contract, $25 and costs on each indictment."

YES, SIR

There are a lot of things about a car that cause a car owner to become dissatisfied with his car. Just remember that your car is a delicate piece of mechanical equipment that needs attention once in a while, most of the time it generally warns you with a knock, rattle or squeak that something is going wrong. It can't fix itself, but it does give you warning in time. Didn't it steer easy and right when you got it, but how about now after hitting curbs and bumps. Yes, and when you got it it didn't use hardly any oil, but now it takes a quart or more every hundred miles—sure something is wrong.

If you are going to continue driving it it will pay you, and also save you money to let us go over it and fix it up right so you can drive it with safety and get satisfaction in driving it. Now is the time to get it ready for summer driving as you will not want trouble on the road.

Daily Health Talk

It was not so long ago that popular fancy attributed to fish the particular virtue of being "food for the brain."

There never was a scintilla of scientific warrant for this belief, largely because we know so little about the metabolism of the nervous system and the brain.

Recently it was shown that a nerve in the process of responding to a stimulus liberates a minute amount of heat, and this was taken as evidence of the fact that the nerve performed an active rather than a passive function in transmitting impulses.

The nerves of the eye, for example, do not transmit light energy.

Seeing is the result of a chain of chemical changes in the nervous system started off by light falling on the sensitive membranes of the eye.

Nerves, therefore, are said to propagate within themselves a wave of excitement induced by energy sources outside themselves. This implies work, and work calls for energy.

What then does the brain, which is, of course, a living tissue, feed on?

The question asked for the rest of the body is usually answered in terms of fats, proteins and sugars. The brain, however, appears to be a tissue highly selective of its foods. It utilizes only carbohydrates and lactic acid.

By a number of ingenious tests the blood going to the brain and that coming from it were studied and compared, and the results pointed to the fact that the brain lives exclusively on sugar.

Even when the rest of the body because diabetes is unable to use sugar, the brain is still capable of using this food element.

Thus nature appears to protect this most vital organ by giving it an extraordinary chemical mechanism by means of which it is assured of its food.
